Reasons for Allowance

1. A petition to revive the application was granted on December 20, 2006.
2. An after-final amendment was received from the applicant on June 15, 2006.
3. Claims 1-24 are allowed.
4. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance. The trailerable recreational vessel as claimed is not shown or suggested in the prior art because of the use of a vessel that is comprised of a hull that includes a pair of spaced-apart pontoons, a bridge that connects said pontoons to form a deck that extends from a bow to a stern of said vessel, at least one rigid bulkhead that is disposed between said bow and said stern and extends from said deck, and a collapsible main canopy that is stored in said bow and is operable to extend from said bow to said at least one bulkhead in order to cover said deck between said bow and said bulkhead.
5. The prior art as disclosed by Lesniak (US 6,623,322) shows the use of a vessel that is comprised of a pair of pontoons that are spaced apart, a bridge that connects said pontoons and forms a deck that extends between a bow and a stern of said vessel, at least one rigid bulkhead in the form of a transom plate that extends from said deck at said stern, and a collapsible main canopy that can be stored in said vessel and is operable to extend from said bow to said bulkhead at said stern of said vessel. However, Lesniak does not disclose the use of or motivation to have at least one bulkhead that is disposed between a bow and a stern of a vessel and extends from a deck. Therefore, none of the prior art cited shows or suggests the use of a trailerable recreational vessel that is comprised of a hull that includes a pair of spaced-apart pontoons, a bridge that connects said pontoons to form a deck that extends from a bow to a stern of said vessel, at least one rigid bulkhead that is disposed between said bow and said stern and extends from said deck, and a collapsible main canopy that is stored in said bow and is operable to extend from said bow to said at least one bulkhead in order to cover said deck between said bow and said bulkhead.
